Currency and Crops-In discussing in the United States Senate the bill to suppress dealings in options and futures Senator PEFFER, of Kansas, took occasion recently to say that whilst be concurred in the conclusions of senators

it was intended to remove, he did not believe that the depression in agriculture was altogether due to dealing in options. Mr. PEFFER is right. If the low price of agricultural products were wholly chargeable to dealing in options and futures. Congress ought to make haste to do away with all such dealings. But if those low prices are mostly chargeable to a constantly-diminishing supply of gold, compared with the increase of business in the commercial world, then the remedy for the evil is to be sought elsewhere. If, for example, it would require more bushels of wheat or pounds of cotton to pay off the national debt now than it would have | will required twenty-five years ago, though proximo. the national debt has been reduced in thirty years by a thousand million dollars, then there is something wrong in our financial system. kept at par by legislation, taxes, &c., we must conclude that there is another factor than the law of supply and demand involved in this matter. The fact is that if Congress were to-morrow to pass a law providing that silver dollars should not be a legal tender for any sort of debts. dues But when we see that silver dollars, worth or demands the price of those dollars would at once fall to the price of silver bullion, and they would become a mere commodity.

Mr. Perfer said that the total number of bushels of corn, wheat, oats, barley, rye, and buckwheat raised in the United States in 1887 was 1,229,729,400, valued at $1,284,087,300—an average of 96 cents per bushel. In 1887 the total production of the same crops was 2,660,457,000 bushels, valued at $1,204,289,370, or an average value of only 66 cents per bushel. In other words, it would have required more than twice as many bushels of the crops named to have paid off the national debt in 1887 than it would have required to pay off the same amount of that debt in 1867. The yield of those crops was nearly double as much in 1887 as in 1867, but the total value of the Mr. PEFFER said that the total number of 1887 as in 1867, but the total value of the HOUSTON'S HANDSOME WEDDING.

We ought to add that there were fluctuations in the prices of the crops named, but the general result of the matter was as Mr PEFFER has stated. He says that in his judgment the diminution and enlarge-ment of the circulating money of the country had something to do with these fluctuating prices. It would seem that the causes he named ought to be credited with some of the fluctuations in prices that we have named: but after all is said that can be said on that side of the question we conclude that it was the diminishing quantity of gold as compared with the com modities which were to be measured by that sole standard of values which was responsible for the fluctuations in question This is a subject worthy of consideration

Crisp and Cleveland. In an interview with a New York World

reporter Mr. Carsp said that his visit to Mr. CLEVELAND was in no sense prear-ranged; that he went to New York on business and thought he ought to call on the President-elect, as he would have done when he went to New York to attend the Reform-Club's dinner if he had not been compelled to hasten back to Washington On the subject of an extra session Mr. Cause accidentally or incidentally what will be taken as an expression of the views of the President-elect in regard to an extra session. Mr. Carsp said : "My views on the subject have already been made known, I think. I should betray a confidence if I repeated what might have been said upon the subject by Mr. Cleveland. I have ught it would be wise to call a special see sion soon after the regular session ended, organize the House, name committees to look after the tariff, silver, and other press ing questions, and adjourn until such time as the President might deem it wise to call us together again. This would afford opportunity to give the subjects upon which we are to pass ample attention and consideration The committees would have a chance to sit when they pleased, prepare bills for submission to the House, and thus much time would be gained. There is a strong scutiment in favor of this plan, but again there is opposition to it. The President is the one to decide the question, and I have no doubt he will determine it wisely and for the hest interests of the country and the party.

We guess. Yankee fashion, that Mr. CLEVELAND favors the policy thus outlined by Mr. CRISP. A session in the fall would be unobjectionable. A session in the spring would be highly objectionable. Indeed, if a spring session be called, it will probably spin out till midsummer. We quote again :

"Mr. Crisp's friends agreed that the meeting between him and the President-elect, and also with Croker, had been of the most satisfactory character, and claimed that Mr. Cleveland would place no obstacle in the way should be desire to succeed himself as presiding officer of the House. Congressman Amos J. Cummings was equally confident that Crisp would wield the gavel another session. So was Congressman Scott, of Illinois."

Local Currency. Good currency flows to money centres. Why does not neighborhood currency? Because, its own advocates being the udges, it is not in good repute away from home. The best currency, according to some persons, is that which refuses to fill the office of a currency, and instead of circulating everywhere circulates only at home. Congressman Bacon, of New York, well says that it is "hoped and expected," that such local currency "would not be at par and of equal value away from home with the legal-tender money." Why anybody should desire to flood the country with any currency that is not as good as the best is more than we can imagine.

The Next Senate.

Mr. HALETEAD says that the Democrats will have a majority in the next United States Senate. It is likely that he is right in this conjecture, for mere conjecture it is, but the fact ought to be a settled one before the President-elect decides to convene Congress in extra session next apring or even next fall. The Democrats in the vene Congress in extra session next spring or even next fall. The Democrats in the Honse of Representatives would feel very when in want of a good liniment, bu fooliah if after meeting in extra session Salvation Oil which costs only 25 cents.

they should find their hands tied by a Republican Senate. Mr. CLEVELAND has more of reputation at stake in this matter than Suspending Silver Purchases. The New York Tribune gives it as an or dit that Mr. CLEVELAND is in favor of changing the Sherman silver law so as to give to the Secretary of the Treasury power to suspend at his discretion all purchases of silver bullion under that law. Such a statement must be based upon comething more than a mere "They say " before we credit it.

Housdon, Va., December 29.—The marriage of Mr. Benjamin Franklin Byrd, of Birmingham, Ala., and Miss Nellie Carpenter, of this town, took place at the Baptist church here on the 27th, Miss Ella Shipman was the maid of honor, and Messrs R. A. Ford, of Washington; J. W. Chingan of Richmond Cition.

Messrs R. A. Ford, of Washington: J. W. Shipman, of Richmond, Clifton Carpenter and Samuel Shedrick, of Culpeper, were the gentleman attendants. The church was beautifully decorated, Rev. W. J. Shipman performed the ceremony and Mrs. A. R. Green presided at the organ. The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Carpenter, of this town, and is a young lady of general popularity and many charming traits. The groom is a prominent railroad man of Birmingham. The happy couple left on the evening train for their southern home, attended by the bost wishes of attended by the best wishes of many friends.

(Special telegram to the Dispatch.)

STAUNTON, VA., December 30.—Dr. Tomlin Braxton, of "Chericoke," King William county, aged 66, and a lite-long and protrinent citizen of that county, died here this morning at the residence of his son, Mr. Allen Caperton Braxton, after a protracted illiness of many months. The immediate members of the family were all here at his bedside. Dr. Braxton was a true type of the Virgina gentieman of Virginia's best days. The deceased leaves a widow (a daughter of the late Hon, Allen T. Caperton, of West Virginia), two daughters—Misses Mary and Eliza Braxton; and three sons—Messrs. Allen Caperton, Hugh Caperton, and Carter Braxton, prominent lawyers of this city. Dr. Braxton was the brother of Mrs. H. Clay Dhlam and Mrs. Lewis Ropkins, of Baltimers lam and Mrs. Lewis Hopkins, of Balti-more, and of Mrs. John B. Young, of Richmond. The place and time of the burial has not yet been decided community was greatly shocked by the sudden death of one of our most prominent merchants, Mr. Charles McMurran, who dropped dead at his store this morning. He had gone to his place of business and seemed to be in brighter spiries than usual, and was in conversation with his brother, when he fell trom his chair and died in a few minutes. He has been a

Miss Lee has been a great traveller, having journeyed twice around the world and made many visits to all of the European countries, to Egypt, China, and Japan, and she has also travelled extensively in this country. She returned two years ago from her last trip abroad, and a former visit to the Old World lasted nine years. Miss Mildred Lee, her sister, is now in Europe, where she spends a large part of her time. They are the only daughters of the southern hero, and are the granddaughters of George Washington Parke Custis, who was the adopted son of Washington. Miss Mary Custis Lee came to Baltimore from Virginia, and has lately been visiting the home of Captain Yeatman, of Alexandria, Va. It has been many years since her last visit to this city, where she has many friends. Miss Lee, when in her native State, spends her time mainly in Rockbridge county.

A New Read for Atlantic-Coast Line.

The Atlantic-Coast Line has made preliminary survey for a new railroad from Wadesboro', on its Cheraw and Salisbury branch, to Winston, N. C. The road, says the Baltimore Som, will be ninety miles long and penetrate the valley of the Yadkin river, which has one of the most remarkable water-powers in the country, the fall being about 200 feet to the mile.
At Winston the new road will connect with the Roanoke and Southern road, a branch of the Norfolk and Western, which has its terminus at that place. The building of this connecting line will give the Norfolk and Western a southern outlet for the products of the Pocaern outlet for the products of the Poca-hontas coal-fields, and therefore the Nor-folk and Western is in close sympathy with the enterprise and will aid in its con-struction and operation. It is said that the Coast Line and Norfolk and Western endorse inutually for a term of years the bonds for the construction of this new link. When completed the road will be owned and operated by the Atlantic-Coast Line. The work of construction will be commenced as soon as the locating surveys are completed and will be pushed to a rapid completion.

The great REMNANT SALE was uspiciously begun yesterday. Surely it was a success from the number of people who faced the old weather to come.

The sale continues to-day. Yesterday's memoranda is good or to-day, and here are a few hort lots it's almost unsafe to mention---they'll be gone so quick-Men's Scarlet Drawers, all wool, cochineal dye, been $1.50 and $1.75, to-day $1. Came's-Hair Drawers, been $1.50, $1.75, and $2, to-day $1. Natural-Wool Drawers, either fleece-lined or without, been $1.50 and $2, to-lay $1.

without, been $1.50 and $2, to-iny $1.

A trade fiction—these Drawers are stamped "Scotch Wool." It isn't so, at least not altogether so, for there is a decided trace of cotfon, Better service for being so. They have been $1 and $1.25, to-day for 60e.
Men's Mult Bows for full dress—or to complete full dress, 5, 10, 15, 19, and 25c.
Left of Eutrance.

More of the CODSLTS. More of the CORSETS spoken of yesterday---and these---4 P. D. S. -18, 20, 25, and 26 for sizes, $3 grade at $1.98.

1 C. P. -27-inch, $1.50 for $2.50 sort.
2 Dr. Warner's Nursin; Corests -25 and 26, 98c, from $1.50.
6 Dr. Warner's Corest Waists for ladies. All size 18; hence 40c, instead of $1.25.
West Alsie, Back, LVCC-DAMEAR.

UNDERWEAR, short lots---Children's Gray Pants and Vests; sizes 20 and up-50c, instead of 98c. Children's White Pants and Vests, odd sizes, July Ladies' (odd sizes) Swiss Ribbed Vests, 50c. instead of $1.48.
Ladies' Flat Merino Pants and Vests, white. All sizes, 37c. from 50c.

One of the charms of ou BOOK-STORE is that we keep it clear of everything that's unworthy as merchandise. Let a book show handling, or be unlucky enough to pose as the last of its kind, and a forced-march price goes Macaulay's England, 3 vols., was $1.25; is half price.
